Testimonial

Lucy Tate - Inverloch SLSC, Chief Instructor

I came out of Ready to Lead with so many new skills that not only made me feel empowered to take on leadership roles at my club, but also enhanced my confidence in my workplace outside of lifesaving.

One of the key development opportunities for me was learning new skills on how to interpret different personalities. Being able to decipher the intricacies behind individual behaviours enables you to be able to find a way to work effectively with a wide variety of different people. By building on this and delving deeper into personality profiles, I learnt how to maximise a team's efficiency by being able to harness the unique strengths of each member and use this to cultivate effective collaboration across varying personalities. This is a powerful and empowering tool that I will continue to practise for the rest of my life.
